

Chamber, Seniors co-sponsoring forum

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce and the Pioneer Circle Seniors have agreed to co-sponsor a forum at which the candidates for Mayor, Town Council and School Board may state their platforms and answer questions from Elk Point voters.

The Seniors have kindly donated the use of their Seniors Recreation Centre for the forum, which is scheduled for Thursday, October 15 at 7 p.m., while the Chamber of Commerce will organize and publicize the event and provide coffee and doughnuts.

All voters are urged to come out and question the candidates, so they will know just whom they wish to vote for on Monday, October 19.

Get your small business nominations in!

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce is once again looking for a Small Business Person of the Year. The Chamber agreed at their October 7 meeting that nominations must be received by 12:00 noon on Wednesday, October 21, which gives you only one week to let them know whom you feel is worthy of this award, and why. Does some business person in Elk Point go out of their way to satisfy their customers' needs, and gives service above and beyond the call of duty? If so, the Chamber wants to hear about it. Please mail your letter nominating your favorite business person to the Chamber at Box 639, Elk Point or drop it off at the Elk Point Review. All nominations must be signed and have the telephone number of the writer enclosed in case further details are required.

Looking further ahead, the Chamber set Friday, December 11 for their 1992 Christmas Extravaganza. They will be looking for a committee to get busy planning this event, and anyone wishing to volunteer to take part may do so at the next Chamber meeting, or may phone President Millie Orr.

The Chamber will once again be sponsoring a Christmas Lighting and Decorating Contest, with judging of outdoor displays on Monday, December 21, and interior decorations in business places during the week prior to that. It was stressed that to be considered for the contest, businesses must be members of the Chamber. Commercial, Residential and Apartment Balcony categories will each offer prizes of $25, $15 and $10.

The Chamber is also considering an Interest Free

Shopping Loan program again this year. Watch for further details.

The initiative taken by Elk Point Community Services in setting up the Community Calendar was praised by Chamber members, who voted to sponsor half of the calendar for November and December.

Concerns with dropping lake levels were brought to Chamber. Boat launching ramps are inadequate in length at many lakes in the area, due to the low water levels, and the Chamber will be writing to Alberta Tourism, Parks and Recreation and to the Lakeland Tourist Association in this regard, asking if ramps cannot be extended into the water to provide accessibility to boaters ready for the 1993 tourist season.

NSF cheques are again a problem in Elk Point. The RCMP is going to be invited to send a representative to an upcoming Chamber meeting to see how this can be alleviated.

Hospital Administrator Clem Johnson had good news for the Chamber. He is "quite optimistic" that things are going ahead on the $5.2 million nursing home wing and renovations to the hospital. The documents necessary for tendering have now been submitted and there will be a four to six week process before a permit can be granted to allow the project to go to tender. Assuming six weeks for the tender process, this would mean that contracts could be awarded early in the new year. Johnson said that the renovation portion of the project, worth over $1 million, could start as soon as the contracts were awarded, with new construction to follow. The addition will increase the

Historic discovery at Heinsburg

Cross remains and lead covered bottle believed to be from 1885

A small lead-wrapped bottle and the remains of a forty foot cross were uncovered recently on the North Saskatchewan River hills east of Heinsburg by Robert Hendriks, Heinsburg, Keith Davidson, Lloydminster, both teachers, and Russell Williams, a Lloydminster area farmer. At the time of the discovery, the group was searching for several steamboat landings and connecting trails to Frog Lake, as well as the original building site of local pioneer E.P. (Pop) Sanderes. Hendriks is conducting historical research on the Frog Lake white settlement and writing a visitor's guidebook and educational teaching kit about the massacre site.

The erection of the cross is recorded in several documents, among them an article written by noted western historian and Islay resident Dr. A. Ronaghan in the Western Producer of May 26, 1966.

Its history is fascinating. On May 23, 1885, one group of the 65th Mounted Royal Rifles (Montreal), floating downriver on scows from Fort Edmonton, camped overnight at Frog Creek en route to Fort Pitt, part of the Alberta Field Force chasing Big Bear's men. At 5 a.m. the following morning, a cross was erected on a prominent hill nearby in memory of the two Frog Lake priests and other massacre victims. A bottle, a form of time capsule containing the names of officers present and other particulars, was buried at its foot, and the hill named Mont Croix. The service was conducted by chaplain Father Provost, who became known for brave deeds during the North West Rebellion.

The exact location of the cross was unknown, even to Ronaghan, who has searched for over thirty years.

This group, knowing the bottle's historical value, immediately requested the help of Ronaghan, who delivered it to the Provincial Museum for safekeeping. Representatives from Alberta Culture, Historic Sites Division later visited the hilltop and recovered the remaining portion of the cross.

Beaver River MP Deborah Grey has initiated the process of having the location declared a national historic and religious site while St. Paul MLA John Drobot is promoting the find provincially. The Deputy Prime Minister's office has contacted land owner George Sanders for details and to provide advice.

Continued study of the bottle and its final resting place is uncertain. Its recovery has created volumes of paperwork and red tape, but until a decision is made, the bottle is being kept in storage at the Alberta Provincial Museum.

Two contest town school board seat

In the race for the Town of Elk Point's representation on the County School Board, Billie Milholland is vying with Ed Buck in the October 19 election.

ED BUCK
Ed Buck came on the School

Board a year ago following a by-election to replace Janice Van Maarion, who left Elk Point. In that year, he has been the first Elk Point representative to vote on the County school and municipal budgets, and saw "the smallest increase in school assessment ever." He felt the vote was a landmark because prior to that time, Elk Point had been assessed school taxes by the County board without having any input into spending. Another first during that year was the meeting between the Board and Elk Point's teachers, which he feels should be an annual event. He feels Elk Point schools have suffered because "the voting majority is in other areas. We need a very strong voice here to get our fair share."

BILLIE MILHOLLAND
Billie Milholland feels it is time for the School Board "to take a broader outlook when they make decisions." She has had a wide experience with other boards and organizations and is fully conversant with the committee process. In addition, she feels "the role of education in Alberta's future is crucial. I want to participate in the decision making that will bring about changes that will benefit the children of today and tomorrow." A wide spectrum of skills gained over the years "will be useful to me in understanding the complexities of the educational system."

Judo demonstration planned

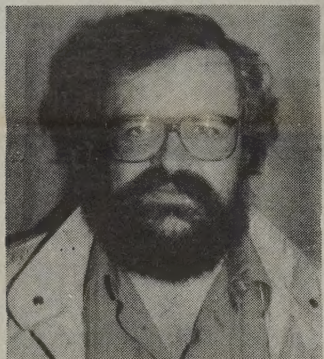

A demonstration by a group of black belt Judo participants from Lloydminster is being held tomorrow evening, October 15 in the Community Services Building, beginning at 8:30 p.m., to introduce this challenging sport to the community.

A non profit Judo Club is being started, with classes starting October 22 for boys and girls aged 8 and up, men and women. Please contact Tony Wentworth at 724-2483 for further information.

Two contest Ward 2 seat hospital board

Ward 2 of the Elk Point Municipal Hospital Board is looking for a new board member in the upcoming municipal election. Mildred Orr is running against incumbent Marvin Bjornstad for the seat.

MARVIN BJORNSTAD

Marvin Bjornstad has held the Ward 2 seat for two full terms and has been the Vice Chairman of the Board for the past three years. The major issue facing the Hospital Board at this time is a big one: "What will happen with medical care in the region due to regionalization." Bjornstad explains that the Minister is reorganizing the department and will put a regional 'board' in place which will have control of all funds for the medical needs of approximately 40,000 people in a wide area, including all medical services including hospitals, the health unit and nursing homes, "anything Alberta Health Care pays for." In addition, the Elk Point Board "always has to address the lack of doctors," and now has a policy in place to recruit additional doctors when there are less than three on staff. Maintaining quality assurance and the system assuring topnotch patient care is a top priority. The new ambulance act that is currently awaiting proclamation is a concern for Bjornstad, who wants to make sure that ambulance service for Elk Point is continued. Seven municipalities have agreed that they would send representatives to be part of a regional ambulance board, he said.

MILDRED ORR

Contender Millie Orr has become increasingly interested in the Hospital Board through her role as President of the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce and her involvement in the Health Care Connection for recruitment of medical professionals. She feels the role of a Hospital Board member is to make sure the hospital is run efficiently and to its potential, and her biggest concern is the lack of doctors. "We had four at one time, and the population has grown since that time," she said, adding that she would have recruitment of additional doctors as a top priority. She also "definitely wants to see this continue as an acute care facility" rather than becoming an auxiliary hospital or nursing home. One reason for seeking a Hospital Board seat is that "I want to ask questions and get answers, and to keep the people of Ward 2 informed of what is happening." She is a lifetime resident of the area and now "I want to help serve it."

QUALIFICATIONS OF ELECTOR:

ELECTOR-ELIGIBILITY TO VOTE:

- A person is eligible to vote in an election if he is:
 - at least 18 years old;
 - a Canadian citizen;
 - has resided in Alberta for the 6 consecutive months immediately preceding election day; and
 - is a resident in the local jurisdiction on election day, unless another enactment requires him to be a proprietary elector.

Subject to section (47 1.2) sections 75, 79 and 81 of the Act, an elector is eligible to vote only at the voting station for the voting subdivision in which he resides.

RULES OF RESIDENCE

- a person may have only one place of residence for the purposes of this Act;
- the residence of a person is the place where he lives and sleeps and to which, when he is absent, he intends to return;
- a person does not lose his residence by leaving his home for a temporary purpose;
- if a person leaves the area with the intention of making his residence elsewhere, he loses his residence within the area.

What's Happening At COMMUNITY SERVICES

Did you know that on election days, Community Services provides transportation services for those in need of a ride to the polling station? The Elks Van has been booked for both Monday, October 19 (Municipal Elections) and Monday, October 26 (Referendum Day). Our volunteer driver Morris Cooper will see you safely to and from the Community Services Centre on those days. All you have to do is give Community Services a call at 724-3800 to arrange for a ride.

WHY IS COMMUNICATION SO HARD?

We'll begin with box, and the plural is boxes;
But the plural of ox should be oxen not oxes.
Then one fowl is goose, but two are called geese
Yet the plural of moose should never be meese.
You may find a lone mouse or a whole lot of mice,
But the plural of house is houses, not hie.
If the plural of man is always called men,
Why shouldn't the plural of pan be called pen?
The cow in the plural may be cows or kine,
But the plural of vow is vows, not vine.
And I speak of a foot, and you show me your feet,
But I give a boot - would a pair be called beet?
If one is a tooth and a whole set are teeth,
Why shouldn't the plural of booth be called beeth?
If the singular is this and the plural is these,
Why shouldn't the plural of kiss be nicknamed kесе?
Then one may be that, and three may be those,
Yet the plural of hat would never be hose;
We speak of a brother, and also of brethren,
But though we say mother, we never say methren.
The masculine pronouns are he, his and him,
But imagine the feminine she, shis and shim!
So our English, I think you will agree,
Is the trickiest language you ever did see!

Editorial

Thanksgiving again

Just flipped the page on my calendar, and there is Thanksgiving marked out, plain for all to see. The only other markings, besides the numbered days, are the tiny black or white moons, and that word, Thanksgiving. On my private list, are many days marked, birthdays of my children and other loved ones, anniversaries and many memories. But I will speak only of Thanksgiving, for this we should all share.

We have so much to be thankful for, here in Alberta, in Canada, in our towns and in our homes. Pick another country, any one in the world: would you want to trade it for good old Canada? Would you go there to live, taking into consideration all the aspects of difference?

Surely, there must be places where the weather is better: where the rains fall as needed, the wind only blows when our sail is set, snow falls only when we wish to ski. Where the cold is never more than enough to allow a snowman on Christmas Day, and the heat is only the perfect degree for swimming. Surely?

Then there are the wonderful peoples of the earth, so kind and loving and friendly at all times. Eh? Would we exchange the exotic plants and animals of Africa (and the calm, peaceful politics) for a minor paper-squabble such as our coming Referendum vote?

Somehow, I can't see it. I love the weather here, most of the time, and if we didn't have "off" days, cold, snow and wind, what would we have to complain about? Sure it would have been great to have more rain in the summer, but we can live very well without the hurricanes and the floods and the earthquakes. I have no problem finding a multitude of reasons to be thankful.

We've enjoyed a fabulously colorful few weeks this fall, as the leaves put on a major show. Perhaps a bit of snow in August is just what we need, to get the showiest colorfest from our leaves! They've taken their time about hitting the ground, too, so it was a nice long show. We really needed that exercise, too, of the raking up; it will let us enter the winter scene in better shape, and better able to handle the broom and shovel, when the flurries start.

With the long fore-warning of early snow, gardens must have been cleared in good time, and even the hoses rolled up, the tools in the shed, the storm windows on.

This long weekend of fall has seen many families gathering to share a wonderful time of togetherness, time to check the kiddies' growth, to recount adventures and jokes - even sad events - to be together. Together, we renew the bonds of family and of friendships, and a turkey alone will never taste like a turkey shared, no matter how well stuffed, how golden brown, how artistically decorated. And how about those pumpkin pies!!!

(Speaking of pumpkins, I understand we had a whopper in the Giant Pumpkin contest. But I wonder if that big fellow would make a very good pie???)

My ideal Thanksgiving dinner would be: roasted turkey, with cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, with turkey gravy, peas, carrots and turnip veggies, (or sweet potato casserole would do fine); a green salad or coleslaw, and to finish off with - pumpkin pie (or lemon, or apple, or raisin or blueberry pie) with whipped cream or ice cream or Dream Whip. All of this cooked by someone else, and served to me graciously, over a period of time, with interesting conversation and laughter abounding. I wouldn't even mind washing the dishes after, but am very thankful that dishwashers were invented.

However, I would still be thankful, if I got a baked potato, a fried egg and a tomato - which I'm sure would be better for my health - as long as there was someone to share it with. Or a peanut butter sandwich and a phone call, and sunshine in the morning.

I think we can all be thankful for the sun in the morning and the moon at night, as the song suggests, and also for the stars, and the winds and rain and snow, for peace in our land, and the abundant harvests of our gardens and fields. We, as farmers, do complain when weather and climate go against us, and the individual has a struggle to meet bills and costs, or to receive normal compensation for the labor and input of a crop year. Still, the land will produce what we need to survive - at least, it always has - and there will be another year, another day.

Alberta Trails

By Irene Magnusson

If we look beyond the horizon, we can see many lands where this is not so. I am thankful for what we have.

So - I will be thankful if we don't get a big snowstorm, and some of my kids can make it home. I'll be thankful if I get the bird in the oven, on time, without forgetting just what to do to make his last hour memorable; if I remember to buy some pies, and peel the spuds, and where the big tablecloth is stored. And if I wake up that morning.

So join with me now, in giving thanks, for health, and love, and life, for family and friends and the good earth, to our loving Father which art in Heaven, for the year past, and the year ahead.

Blacksmith trade a lost art

Steve Andrishak

At one time the blacksmith was considered to be one of the most useful and skilled tradesmen in his community. Every district had one or more blacksmiths who went about, shoeing horses, trimming their hoofs, sharpening, making and tempering plow shares and repairing wagon and buggy wheels. The early settlers all depended strongly on their village blacksmith to keep their machinery operational at all times. Spare parts were not readily available like they are today and he was called upon to make various repairs whenever they were needed.

His blacksmith shop generally was equipped with a forge, a blower (used to supply oxygen to the burning coal), an anvil used for pounding purposes, a drill press, a trip hammer and other needed equipment. The blacksmith used a variety of tools such as different sized hammers, hot and cold chisels and many different shaped blacksmith tongs.

Some of the early blacksmiths used a blacksmith bellows to supply oxygen to the coal burning forge. This device resembled a bull fiddle and was made from wood and leather. It remained in a flat position near the forge with its funnel facing the burning coal. The upper part of the bellows was attached to a rope which was suspended from the ceiling and when the rope was pulled up and down it created an air flow which was led into the forge. In later years this awkward arrangement was replaced with a hand turned blower.

In making repairs the blacksmith first had to heat the metal until it became red hot, he then hammered and shaped it with his anvil. Later it was cooled and tempered by dipping it in cold water.

Blacksmithing has always been considered one of our oldest crafts. It began hundreds of years ago when man first began pounding on cold metal to shape his iron tools and weapons. Later man discovered metal would pound and shape easier if it was first heated.

Some of our first settlers brought blacksmith equipment with them when they settled in our district, others didn't and so they had to depend on the general blacksmith for their machinery repairs.

Two blacksmiths who came to the Elk Point district prior to the 1920s were Joe Blaine and W.A. Wardrope. Mr. Wardrope built a blacksmith shop where our United Church now stands, about 1916. His blacksmith shop was advertised in the Elk Point Agricultural Fair booklet of 1918. It reads: "W.A. Wardrope, Elk Point, Alta. - General Blacksmith, horse shoer and woodworker. All kinds of repair work done." Apparently Joe Blaine was one of the first blacksmiths in Elk Point, when it was still a hamlet.

Other blacksmiths in later years were William Soldan, Nick Sakowsky, and Paul Petrosky. Still later came John Paradowski and Harry Prusak. William Soldan took W.A. Wardrope's shop over in 1924. He sold it in 1925 and in 1927 he built a large garage building on Main Street. Part of this building contained a blacksmith shop which was operated by Nick Sakowsky. The last of our blacksmiths was Harry Prusak. He came to the Elk Point district from Waskatenau, Alberta in the late 1940s.

At one time all blacksmiths had more work than they could handle, however in the late 1940s the trade began to deteriorate. Means of transportation had changed from wagons and buggies to cars and trucks. Fewer horses were used for this purpose and the end result was a drop-off in business for the blacksmith. Also at this time machinery companies started to mass produce machinery parts and this too hurt the blacksmith trade. The final blow came when electric welders were introduced to our district. Many farmers bought their own welders and no longer had to depend on the blacksmiths for their repair work.

Today, the blacksmith trade is fast becoming a lost art - about the only blacksmiths who still ply their trade are those employed in places such as Fort Edmonton Park or the Ukrainian Cultural Village where they demonstrate their work to tourists as well as school groups who visit these establishments.

In past years the blacksmith was a well established tradesman. However during recent times methods of repairing farm machinery have changed and the old blacksmith trade as we remember it no longer exists.

MARVIN BJORNSTAD

I would like to ask for your continued support in the upcoming vote for the Hospital Board. If elected, I would:

- Continue to look for all possible ways to recruit more physicians for the Hospital.
- Work closely with other board members to find the best solutions for area residents in the forthcoming regionalization of medical care.
- Maintain the strong emphasis on Quality Assurance within the hospital that has lead to two 3-year accreditations in a row.
- Prepare, with the surrounding municipalities, to implement the new Ambulance Act so that all members of the Hospital District have acceptable ambulance service.
- Seek innovative ways to control costs and maintain good financial controls for both day-to-day hospital operations and the building of the new nursing home addition.
- Listen to the concerns of the community and express them to the Board.

I need your support to continue to work for the long-term benefit of your community hospital.

On Monday, October 19, take time to vote

Holiday with horses

Emily MacDonald

When I looked out my window, there it was: a boat on a trailer, pulled by horses, with regular wheels on the trailer, and some chuckwagon wheels in front. I just had to catch up to them to find out all about it.

They told me they had done this for five years. I thought it neat for our Bicentennial year, different, unusual and really quite exciting enough to make me want to write about it.

The boat / trailer was pulled led by a faithful team of horses, a well matched team named Buck and Squaw. Being purchased from the natives was the reason for their names. In the boat was all their camping equipment, with owner Bill Isert driving the team. His wife Rhonda and young son Colby road in the boat, also Jackie Ford and baby Orrin, only one month old. Baby Orrin had camped out at two weeks old, I was told.

They had two outriders along on the trip, Roger Ford, Jackie's man, on a horse called Gismo and a friend, Kevin McDonald, on a horse called Nick. Last but not least was a very well behaved Australian Shepherd - collie cross dog named Dundee, running along keeping guard.

These people travelled all the way from Dewberry up to the Garnier Lakes, which would be about forty miles. They did some fishing and horseback riding that weekend. Hats off to the dear old ponies that made it possible. A neat and cheap way to take a holiday, I would say.

Alberta farmers gain market access in NAFTA

Market access is what Alberta farmers will gain with the recently negotiated North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) says an Alberta Agriculture specialist.

"Removing tariffs and non-tariff barriers should encourage growth of Alberta agricultural exports to Mexico," says Reynold Jaipaul, an agricultural economist with the department's trade policy secretariat. The export growth list includes pork, beef, purebred cattle, dairy products, wheat, barley, canola, seed potatoes, mushrooms and special crops.

In 1991 Alberta exported mainly wheat and dairy products to Mexico he adds. Last year's export total was only $11.4 million.

Both Canada and Mexico agreed to eliminate all tariff and non-tariff barriers, with certain exceptions, on their agricultural trade. The exceptions are the supply managed dairy, poultry and egg sectors, and sugar.

Most tariffs will be phased out over 10 years. "The exceptions are the supply managed dairy, poultry and egg sectors, and sugar."

Most tariffs will be phased out over 10 years. "The phase-out period will be longer for some commodities, such as Mexico's corn and beans. Both commodities are sensitive to imports, so tariffs will be in place for 15 years," he says.

A major trade barrier for Canada's grain industry will also change. Mexico agreed to convert its import licensing system into tariffs or tariff rate quotas (TRQs). "Once the quota is reached, a higher tariff rate is applied to the additional goods," Jaipaul explains. "For more commodities the TRQ will increase by five per cent every year. However, TRQs and grain-related tariffs are expected to be phased out over the next 10 years."

When the agreement becomes law, Canada will immediately exempt Mexico from import restrictions on: beef and veal; margarine; and, barley and wheat and their products. Canada will also exclude Mexico from its meat import laws. As well, tariffs on many fruits and vegetables will end immediately, or be phased-out during the first five or 10 years of the agreement. Special safeguard provisions will apply to import sensitive commodities such as tomatoes, cucumbers and frozen strawberries.

Agricultural trade is covered two ways in the trade pact, in three-way (trilateral) and two-way (bilateral) agreements. Domestic support programs, export subsidies and health standards are dealt with in trilateral agreements. Market access is in separate bilateral agreements between Canada and Mexico, and Mexico and the U.S. The provisions of the Canada-U.S. trade agreement will apply between Canada and the U.S.

"Canada went into the trade talks with four basic goals, and achieved them," notes Jaipaul. Those goals included: freer access to the Mexican market on equal or equivalent terms as the U.S.; preserving and enhancing Canada-U.S. trade agreement benefits; retaining Canada's reputation as an attractive investment location; and, preserving Canada's supply management system for dairy, poultry and eggs.

The NAFTA pact is now being fine tuned and having its legal text written. Canada, the United States and Mexico agreed on the trade pact in mid-August. NAFTA creates the world's largest free trade area with a combined population of 370 million and gross domestic product of over $7 trillion. It's expected to take effect on January 1, 1994.

October 11 - 17, 1992

School Bus Safety is a cooperative effort between students, parents, the motoring public and the professional school bus operator.

Well trained, safety oriented bus operators are the best assurance of a continued safe school bus operation.

Your support is required to ensure that school bus transportation continues as one of the safest means of transportation in Alberta.

Motorists — Please stop when the red lights on the school bus are flashing.

Parents — Please ensure that your children know and observe all the school bus safety regulations.

Students — Please be at your bus stop on time and PLEASE be careful.

Ashworth Estate funds Handicapped Children

The Ashworth Estate, a trust established under the auspices of the St. Paul and District Association for the Handicapped in May of 1991, is very pleased and excited to announce this year that they have been able to help initiate and support a number of projects for special needs children in the St. Paul/Elk Point area.

As a result of the generosity of the Ashworth Estate, two of the dependant handicapped students within our public school system will have the opportunity for a work experience. One of the students has already been placed at Vision's Hair Design in St. Paul. The benefits of such a program are immense. These young people will have an opportunity to participate in our community and to receive training in actual job skills.

As well, a buddy system is going to be set up for the dependant handicapped teenagers offering them an opportunity to interact directly with four students from the Regional high school and their peers.

Some of the other monetary contributions the committee will make are:

- The purchase of a new trampoline for the Children's Residence for the mentally handicapped;
- The purchase of a computer for the Learning Assistance Centre at Racette junior high school;

- Support towards the establishment of a family camp in the Elk Point area for families with special needs children.

The total worth of these contributions, is over $6,500.

Since the Ashworth Estate Trust's inception in 1981, dollars have been available to enable handicapped children to accomplish many special things. Equipment has been purchased for many of our schools and the St. Paul and District Association for the Handicapped. Dollars have been made available to enable handicapped children to attend special programs and to take special trips, often as far away as Disneyland. North-eastern Alberta should certainly be indebted to the generosity of Mr. Clement Ashworth.

Marauders lay a lickin' on St. Paul Lions

Bruce Campbell
Staff Writer

The threat of a teachers' strike cost the St. Paul Lions a quality football player and possibly a football game Thursday in Vermilion.

Ex-Lion Roger Smith ran for 128 yards in leading the Vermilion Marauders to a 21-1 victory over his ex-teammates from St. Paul.

Beating his former team was high on his priorities.

"I have a lot of friends on the St. Paul team," Smith said, with a grin. "I didn't want to get bugged by those guys after the game." The loss left the Lions with an 0-6 record in the Wheatland Football League clinching them last spot in the league. Vermilion improved to 2-4.

Smith had opted to attend school in Vermilion rather than in Elk Point because of a potential teachers' strike.

"Smith killed us," Lions' head coach Dale Bischoff said. "We had a lot of trouble tackling him."

Lion miscues, injuries, turnovers and penalties also killed them.

Vermilion scored their first touchdown early in the first quarter, after blocking Blair Babych's quick kick on the Lion's five-yard line.

Two plays later, Shawn Minish punched it across to give Vermilion a 7-0 lead.

The Lions went into the first half down 7-1.

In the second half the officials looked like they were waving in surrender they threw so many flags at the Lions.

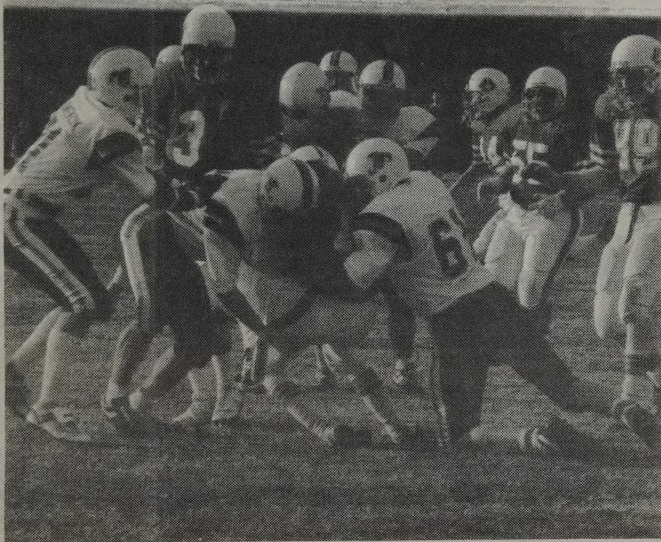

The Lions were moving the ball early in the second half, but it was one step forward and two steps back as they were continually penalized.

St. Paul's Kelly Willier made a spectacular catch on first down and 20 to put the Lions on the Vermilion 26-yard line.

But Willier was called for offensive pass interference.

"Willier's catch getting called back on pass interference hurt us," Bischoff said. "I thought it was defensive pass interference. That was really a big play."

Willier's penalty was called just a few plays after the Lions' Brett Scrannage had a 35-yard catch and run called back on holding.

Thrown to the Lions

This Vermilion running back is thrown for a loss during the Vermilion-St. Paul Lions football game, Thursday in Vermilion. It was the only loss Vermilion would suffer, however as they defeated the Lions 21-1.

Come out and vote on October 19, 1992

The Lions were still only down 7-1 after three quarters.

"Our defense didn't play bad at all," Bischoff said. "Ron Richardson (linebacker) was hurt early in the game, but our defense hung in there."

Vermilion scored early in the fourth quarter on a 70-yard touchdown run by Ryan Sweet.

The Marauders final touchdown came on the final play of the game when Sweet punched it in from the one-yard line, after the Lions had turned the ball over on downs at the 12-yard line.

The Lions play their final game of the season Friday at 4:00 at Regional high school when they take on the Wainwright Commandos.

Children are inquisitive by nature. But with electricity, that quality can get them into serious trouble. That's why the people of Alberta Power are visiting schools with their safety demonstrations.

We want to educate children about electricity, where it comes from, how it benefits us and why it always demands respect.

Because the more children know about electricity, the safer they'll be. And that's important to you...and to us.

Elk Point Skating Club will be holding a GENERAL MEETING on October 14, Wednesday, 7:00 p.m. in the A.G. Ross Arena.

Interpretation of early fur trade era to visitors

Ms Magee told her listeners that the first Friends society started in 1984, at the time she was hired by Alberta Culture, and that there are now 15 societies in Alberta. The object of a Friends society is to promote and support the historic site - "that's your mission statement" - by stretching dollars, manpower and ideas. How the Friends get involved "is up to you," she noted, although "we have to maintain standards," with certain types of activities not permitted. Friends societies are locally established, independent entities, and work with the site directors and managers.

Irene Jendzjowsky said that the Alberta Culture role "is sometimes not quite understood." She explained the department structure, and the various departments which work together to develop and operate an historic site.

Thirty years in the Girl Guide movement, 10 years as a nurse and 20 as a travel agent have given Louise Crane a good background at being prepared for any eventuality. Here at the Forts, she said her objectives are pre-set, in the form of a master plan with goals, with which to interpret the early fur trade era to site visitors. Ms Crane has several programming objectives, including one called "Weather or Not," which is being run in conjunction with Parks Canada, mapping and orienteering, storytelling, and special events. Several special events for the fort are already in the planning stages, including a September 19 Tribute to the Metis, Guy Fawkes Day in November, and a Trappers Ball in February, and St. George's Day in April. Guy Fawkes and St. George's Days were celebrated back in fur trade days, as the men at the forts followed the customs of the British isles. Ms Crane's primary objective is "promotion on a budget." All funds earned by the Friends must be spent on the site, and "we have a shopping list," she said. One of the items on this list is designation of the fort sites, in which the actual locations of the forts' buildings would be marked and signage erected. Another suggestion for a project, this coming from the Spence family, whose ancestor designed and built the originals at the fort, was construction of a York Boat, such as the one on display at Fort Edmonton.

Further discussion of the Fur Trappers Ball indicated that Elk Point Community Services is interested in becoming involved as part of their celebration of the Family Day weekend. There is also the possibility of a dog-led run from Shaw House, near Bonnyville.

The Friends are interested in setting up a concession committee to provide a concession for events such as the upcoming September 19 gathering. They also need a membership chairperson.

Good old-fashioned family fun with FCSS

Have you ever been fed ice cream...blindfolded?

As a part of the Family Passport to Active Living activities, Elk Point FCSS held a family night at their headquarters, Thursday, Oct. 8.

"The intent was to promote and strengthen family relationships," says Terri Ehler, FCSS director, "we want to encourage participation in family events."

The evening started off with a few rounds of cards and the definite highlight was watching the blindfolded victims being spoon-fed ice cream.

FCSS awarded prizes to the participants and a snack was enjoyed by all. The children then played with their new toys.

Ehler and Lynn Proski of FCSS presented certificates of activation to those who were a part of the Family Passport to Active Living Challenge.

In spite of a low turnout, fun was had by all. Other community events going on that evening affected the participation. In spite of that, several passports were handed in.

Can it be done?

Being spoon-fed ice cream was no problem for Kate Alexander at the Family Passport to Active Living activities Thursday night in Elk Point. Obviously, her mother, Betty Anne, is quite experienced at spoon-feeding in spite of being blindfolded.

Child care worries concern parents

areas throughout the Province, that parents are looking for the cheapest child care arrangements. As the saying goes, "parents go underground" and find private arrangements for their children.

Sometimes this works well with little or no problems. Often the general public is unaware of government regulations regarding child care.

For example, anyone who is privately babysitting and has more than three children (including their own) at any one time during the day, is babysitting illegally. Babysitting is also considered a self-employed business in one's own home and should be declared as such. The public needs to be aware of government regulations which are designed to protect all parties in child care. One could say that Elk Point is a small town and there are no problems with private babysitting. We hope this is the case because it is our children who eventually pay the highest price if there is a problem with child care arrangements. Our children are our future and are a concern to all of us. If anyone has any questions regarding government regulations or about becoming an approved provider, please call the office at 724-3800 or Deanna Easthope, Coordinator at 724-3933.

Cattle Commission Launches Environmental Award

The Alberta Cattle Commission (ACC) has established a new award to recognize the contribution cattle producers make to the environment. The first annual Environmental Stewardship Award will be presented at the commission's annual general meeting in Calgary in December. The award will recognize cattle producers whose natural resource management practices enhance the environment and improve the wildlife habitat. "Cattle producers care about the environment and are voluntarily changing production practices to make their operations increasingly environmentally sustainable," says Margaret Jensen, ACC producer liaison chair. "The Environmental Stewardship Award was created to publicly recognize some of the individuals who are doing an excellent job of protecting and enhancing the environment." The 1992 winner will receive a commemorative plaque and an all expenses paid trip for two from anywhere in Alberta to the commission's annual general meeting December 7 through 9.

WHAT'S NEWS AT THE LIBRARY?

The Elk Point Public Library has received a good number of new books ordered through the Northern Lights Library System. These books arrive already catalogued, covered and shelf ready for our patrons to borrow. Come in and see how attractive these books look and borrow some to read. Included in the shipments are:

The Happy Isles of Oceania - join the author, Paul Theroux as he kayaks the shimmering Pacific from island to island.

Second Honeymoon by Dr. Sonya Rhodes - This book is a pioneering guide for reviving the mid-life marriage.

Sweeping from the luxurious Foxe mansion in San Francisco to the worldly elegance of Paris and New York, the book Beyond Eden by Catherine Coulter is a spell-binding novel of romantic suspense.

Body and Soul by Marcelle Bernstein - This is an intimate, moving story about a nun who discovers a lust for life.

The captivating new novel Eternity by Jude Deveraux - Carrie Montgomery ever had to fight for anything, until she met the most wonderful, most exasperating man, Joshua Greene.

Two large print romance books are The Belles of Heaven by Nan Herbert and Allure of Love by Honor Vincent.

For the juvenile readers, we have a Canadian classic, The Secret World of Og by Pierre Berton.

An enchanting book filled with wonder and surprise, Aska's Animals stunningly depicts the beauty and magic of the animal kingdom by artist Warabe Aska, with poetry written by David Day.

Monica Hughes has written The Crystal Drop. It is about the very near future when the most precious commodity is water. A very moving story that portrays a brother and sister whose courage and optimism bring about a satisfying ending.

Further Education news

We are well into our series of Brown Bag Sessions, which are designed to meet the needs of busy people by fitting into their lunch hour slot of 12 noon to 1 p.m. This Thursday, October 15, we have Bags, Bags, Bags, instructed by Lee Johnson, who will show us a variety of handmade bags, large and small, as well as designer gift bags for Christmas. On October 22, Betty Anne Alexander will be the instructor for Management Of Your Home Pharmacy, which will tell you more about your medications, how to store them and how to dispose of out-dated drugs. Fabric Recycling on October 29 will have Ellen Seward on hand to show you some interesting and useful ways to recycle various types of fabric. Come for lunch, at a nominal extra fee, for the final two of the series, Cooking With Honey on November 5 with Deborah Lind, and Great Pumpkin Surprise with Billie Milholland and Sherry Pelech, creators of The Great Pumpkin Cookbook, on November 12.

Fun and Fitness started yesterday and goes Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9:30 to 10:30, with Daphne Schnurer as instructor.

The first session of Paper Mache Santas also was held yesterday, with the second session October 27.

Get an early start on your Christmas preparations this weekend, with Wreaths, Swags and More on Saturday and Bows, Bows, Bowson Sunday.

Sunday is also the beginning of the 8-session Texas Style Dancing For Beginners which goes Wednesdays and Sundays until November 15. Guy and Sharon Brosseau are the very talented instructors. Come along and learn how to dance up a storm ready for those festive season parties.

We are looking for two more sewing sleuths to solve the mystery of how to create a Mini Mystery Quilt suitable for a wall hanging or table topper in an all-day session on October 20. Hurry and get your name in-the October 24 course is already filled to capacity.

Turn a plain t-shirt or sweatshirt into a work of art on Wednesday, October 28 at our No Sew Applique course, instructed by Susan Thornton.

It's no secret at all that our Secret Pillow courses are very popular. Get your registration in now for the October 29 session.

For more information, call Verona Lea at 724-4101 or 724-2269.

Poppy Campaign underway

The Royal Canadian Legion's annual Poppy Campaign is now underway, and everyone is urged to support the Legion with their donations.

Businesses and organizations are reminded that Remembrance Day is not far off, and the Legion would be pleased to sell you a wreath to be placed at the Cenotaph. Remember, even if you already have a wreath, the Legion would like a donation towards the expenses of their Remembrance Day observances if your group can do so. These expenses include purchasing the poppies and the lunch served that day, and are nowhere near covered by the donations for the poppies.

Participants in the Peace Park dedication ceremonies fed handfuls of bone meal to the newly planted Peace Grove of twelve trees. Seven of the trees were donated by Maryann Kozicky (with bag of bone meal) and five by the Elks Lodge.

Elk Point Child Care Services

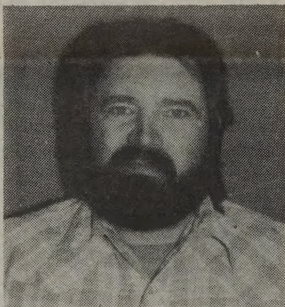

Elk Point Child Care Services is the name given to the government approved Family Day Home Program operating in the Town of Elk Point. This program ensures that children are being cared for in a safe environment by caring providers. These providers also ensure that the children receive adequate nutritional meals and snacks and that the developmental needs of the children are met. Before applicants can provide care to small children they must meet certain requirements as outlined in the Family Day Home Program Manual. Likewise, parents who want to place their children in these homes must also meet certain minimum requirements before their children can be placed in a provider home. All these regulations provide protection for all concerned.

In our recent economic decline we have noticed, not only in Elk Point but in other

Peace celebrated with park dedication

A single fighter jet soared across the cloudy sky, and a few drops of fall rain fell to christen the Peter Fidler Peace Park, as area residents gathered for Thursday's 12 noon dedication, which was held simultaneously with five hundred park dedications across the nation, and the unveiling of the National Peacekeeping Monument in Ottawa.

Town Councillor Adele Mandryk, who served as mistress of ceremonies, welcomed those in attendance, and told them that the park will be "a new 'Place of Peace' which will remind us that Canadians are a people dedicated to peace." She recognized the Elk Point Elks Lodge for their kind contribution of benches and signage which enhance the statue of Hudson's Bay surveyor Peter Fidler, and thanked them for their willingness to provide additional funds to complete the peace grove and provide the dedication plaque. "Their contribution has been invaluable, and indeed, has made it all possible."

Morris Cooper of the Royal Canadian Legion was then called forward, and said that Canada is well known for their part in keeping peace in a troubled world. The men and women who died for that peace in World War I, World War II and Korea are commemorated each year on November 11, as a reminder of their great sacrifice, he said.

Cooper and Elks representative Bill Schuhmacher then unveiled the plaque, which was read aloud by Ms Mandryk:

"Peter Fidler Peace Park was officially dedicated October 8, 1992 commemorating Canada's 125th Anniversary as part of the Peace Parks Across Canada Project. Elk Point joined with towns, villages and cities across Canada in a celebration of Canada's commitment to peace among all people of the world and peace with our common home and environment, planet Earth. In traditional Native North American teachings, the whirling rainbow is the promise of peace among all nations and all people. 'Whirling rainbow, giver of life, through your cleansing rains. Uniting all colors, the children of Earth will walk in peace again. Whirling rainbow, touch our hearts, we will surely fly. Never lonely or apart, our whirling colors in the sky.' (from a poem by Native teacher Jamie Sams) Officially dedicated by: Town of Elk Point, BPO Elks No. 460, Elk Point Bicentennial Society, Maryann Kozicky, whose donation of 7 spruce trees inspired us."

Lawrence Pidluzny then led the singing of O Canada.

Ms Mandryk said that it is hoped that peace related activities will be held in the new park and that through these activities, "we will begin the process of understanding ourselves and others, and seek to live in harmony with each other, nature and the environment on our Mother Earth."

The group was then invited to join in the ceremonial spreading of bone meal around each of the twelve Peace Grove trees, giving them extra energy for growth.
